About the Company

InfoObjects was formed in 2005 to provide software engineering services focused on cutting-edge database, middleware and web-tier application development. Combining the passion for open source technologies with rapid, agile development techniques, it has earned a reputation for being a reliable software development partner and attributes our success to the core values of our business. It provides IT engineering services only, not software products. Its mission is to help leverage your IT resources by understanding your environment, objectives and limitations (KPIs), and then recommend the most effective open source tools and technologies that meet your needs. It delivers complete software applications for users of cutting-edge IT as well as for computer systems and software providers. For more details visit: <http://www.infoobjects.com>
